

The Student Survey, Word for Word

Three anonymous questions. Optional, and only with the school's approval.

After some assemblies, students can answer three quick questions by scanning a QR code. It takes about a minute and helps Chad show the school what students took away. Here is every question, word for word, so principals and families can see it first.

THE RULES

- Only with the school's OK. The principal approves it first and checks district policy. Some districts require written parent consent for student surveys. If the answer is no, it doesn't happen.
- Families can opt out. The parent letter describes the survey and lets families excuse a student from the survey alone.
- Anonymous. No names, no email addresses, no phone numbers, no student ID, no sign-in.
- Optional. Every question can be skipped.
- Nothing personal. No questions about a student's own mental health, family, religion, politics or behavior, and no open text box.
- Totals only. Results are reported only as totals, and any group with fewer than 10 answers is combined or left out. Chad shares the summary with the school.

THE STAFF CHECK

Teachers who were in the room answer Agree, Unsure or Disagree:

1. Students were engaged.
2. The message fit our school's support system.
3. I would bring this speaker back.

The counseling office may also share one total, no names: how many students came in during the 7 school days after the assembly, compared with a typical week.

THE STUDENT QUESTIONS

1a. Right now, do you know where to go at school if you needed help?

Yes · Not sure · No

1b. (next screen) Thinking back to before today, did you know where to go?

Yes · Not sure · No

2. Which one thing from today will you actually use? The choices match the talk:

- Anything Is Possible: Fill in my goal card tonight · Treat a setback as information, not a verdict · Make one decision and start · None of these
- The Weight You're Carrying: Write one thing down · Say "this is my freeze response" · The one-question pause · The one-sentence turn · None of these
- I Walked the Hallways Alone: Sit next to someone who's alone · Say something when I see it · Check on a friend who's gone quiet · None of these

3. Should other schools bring in this talk?

Yes · Maybe · No

Large schools only, optional: Grade 9 · 10 · 11 · 12. Left off at small schools, where a grade could point to one student.

THE LAST SCREEN EVERY STUDENT SEES

"If you or a friend need help right now, talk to [counselor] in [room], or call or text 988. In danger? Call 911."

THREE WEEKS LATER (OPTIONAL)

Teachers can post question 1a again, plus one more: How many adults at this school could you go to if you needed help? 0 · 1 · 2 · 3 or more

WHAT THE SCHOOL GETS

A one-page summary within a week: the totals, what they show, and what they don't. Students' answers right after a talk show what they said, not what they'll do, and the summary says so.
